

Dr. Baswaraj Raigond

Born on 25th January, 1980, he obtained his Bachelor degree (B.Sc. Agri.) from University of Agricultural Sciences, Dharwad, Karnataka and M.Sc. & Ph.D in the area of Plant Pathology (Plant Virology as specialization). He was a recipient of National fellowship for his Ph.D. Programme from U.G.C, New Delhi. He joined ICAR-Central Potato Research Institute in the year 2010 and presently working as Scientist in the Division of Plant Protection, at ICAR-CPRI, Shimla. He has 6 years of research experiences in the area of potato virology especially in the field of Diagnostics, Transgenics, Pathogenomics, Electron microscopic studies and in the field of Nanotechnology. He has published more than 25 research article/book chapter/Technical bulletin. He was also awarded with the IPA-Kaushalya Sikka Memorial Award for the block year 2009-2013 for his contribution in developing diagnostic tools for detection of potato virus.