

Dr. PS Basu

(b. June 5, 1959)

Principal Scientist and Head, Division of Basic Sciences, ICAR-IIPR, Kanpur, U.P
basups@satyam.net.in

Born in 1959, Dr PS Basu obtained Master degree in 1981 and PhD in Botany from BHU in 1988 and presently working as PS and Head, Division of Basic Sciences in ICAR-IIPR, Kanpur. His research area covers a biotic stress management, phenotyping and tolerance mechanisms in pulses. He made significant contributions in evolving heat and drought tolerant pulses varieties and adaptation mechanisms. He published papers in several National and International Journals, book chapters and reviews. He established international collaboration with CSIRO, Australia, ICRISAT, India and JIRCAS Japan for stress physiology. He was nominated as Indian representative and expert of climate change in Bangkok, Thailand.